

ASKARI WILDERNESS CONSERVATION PROGRAMME

The Askarian - July 2015

<http://www.askariwcp.com>

During July we had our shut-down period so not too many reserve events to report on but a few photos from our first few days back. August newsletter to follow soon.

One of our first sightings with the new group was a Honey badger! It was a repeat of a sighting a few years ago right near the end of the Askari driveway in a sandy patch off Main access. The badgers are digging for frogs which are hibernating; distracted by their work, the badgers don't mind us looking on! We had a fantastic night drive with not one....but two separate brown hyaena sightings ☺ And finally an early morning visit to the spotted hyaena den is always rewarded with a great sighting and photo opportunity.
